INTRODUCTION: RÉAMHRÁ:

FIND is a series of temporary artworks/ installations/events in and around the town of Castlebar, Co Mayo. The works are installed within walking distance of each other and found via the map included in this brochure or by attending the guided artist tours. The Linenhall Arts Centre will act as central headquarters/studio for participating artists and audience alike.
This project is the first collaboration of the Linenhall Arts Centre and the Mayo County Council Arts Office Public Art Programme, curated by Gaynor Seville. The series of temporary installations are created by Mayo based artists who applied for the commissions via an open competition process. The Linenhall Arts Centre and the project mentors selected the final artists. The theme of FIND is experience of temporary work, and documentation and legacy of temporary work. Artists were encouraged to consider discreet or 'hidden' works that will be 'unravelled', or be revealed, via the event tour, and map – encouraging the audience to search out the work. The Mayo artists who were selected for the commissions are Ian Wieczorek, Amanda Rice, Chris Leach, Nuala Clarke with Crystal Gandrud, Alice Dixon with Anthony Champa (Exterus) and Joanna Hopkins.

These artists also had the opportunity to be mentored and supported by International profile artists Alice Maher and Aideen Barry during the development and realisation of their ideas. Alice had a hugely successful mid career retrospective at IMMA in 2013 and she has vast experience in working in installation, site-specific and temporal art. Aideen Barry has a multi versatile practice, which spans a range of art forms and approaches, including sculpture, performance, drawing, and animation. Aideen also acts and an advocate for visual artists based in the west of Ireland in her role as Western Representative for Visual Artists Ireland. She teaches at the Limerick School of Art and Design as a Lecturer in Sculpture and Combined Media.

An accompanying exhibition at the Linenhall, will expose the studio work and process behind the production of the artists artworks. The gallery space will in effect become a living installation of artist's studios during the month of the exhibition and audience members throughout the month will have the opportunity to observe and meet the artists working in the space.

Sraith de shaothar ealaíon/ealaín suiteála/imeachtaí i mbaile Chaisleán an Bharraigh, Co. Mhaigh Eo agus mórthimpeall air is ea FIND. Tá na saothair suite achar siúlóide óna chéile agus tiocfar orthu tríd an léarscáil atá faoi iamh an leabhráin seo nó trí fhreastal ar na turais treoraithe. Beidh Halla an Línéadaigh ina cheanncheathrú/stiúideo láir don aos ealaíne rannpháirteach 7 don lucht éisteachta araon.
Is é an tionscadal seo an chéad togra comhpháirtíochta idir Halla an Línéadaigh agus Clár na nEalaíon Poiblí de chuid Oifig Ealaíon Chomhairle Contae Mhaigh Eo faoi chúram Gaynor Seville. Ealaíontóirí atá bunaithe i Maigh Eo agus a chuir isteach ar na coimisiúin trí chóras iomaíochta oscailte a chruthaigh an tsraith insuiteáin sealadacha. Roghnaigh Ionad Ealaíon Halla an Línéadaigh agus meantóirí an tionscadail na healaíontóirí deireanacha. Is iad taithí ar obair shealadach chomh maith le doiciméadú agus iarmhairt na hoibre sealadaí na téamaí atá ag FIND. Spreagadh ealaíontóirí le saothair folaithe nó mhíntláithe a cheapadh a scaoilfeas a rúin 'go slítheánta', in imeacht an turais leis an léarscáil – ní a spreagfas daoine leis na saothair a aimsiú.
Is iad na healaíontóirí as Maigh Eo a roghnaíodh do na coimisiúin Ian Wieczorek, Amanda Rice, Chris Leach, Nuala Clarke, Alice Dixon agus Joanna Hopkins.
Bhí an deis ag na healaíontóirí seo meantóireacht agus tacaíocht a fháil le linn fhorbairt agus fhíoradh a meabhraíochta ó bheirt ealaíontóirí a bhfuil meas idirnáisiúnta orthu, Alice Maher agus Aideen Barry. Bhí aisbhreathnú iontach rathúil ar chéad leath a saol ealaíne ag Alice san IMMA anuraidh agus tá taithí céadtach oibre aici le healaín suiteála, suíomhoiriúnaithe agus ama. Tá cleachtas iloibritheach ag Aideen Barry a chuimsíonn réim cineálacha ealaíne agus cur chuige, an dealbhóireacht, léiriú, tarraingt agus beochan ina measc. Is crann taca í Aideen don aos amharcealaíne in iarthar na hÉireann mar chuid dá dualgas agus í ina hIonadaí an Iarthair d'Amharcealaíontóirí na hÉireann.
Is Léachtóir í i Scoil Ealaíne agus Deartha Luimnigh mar a mbíonn sí ag teagasc Dealbhóireacht agus na Meáin Traschórais.
Léireoidh taispeántas tionlacain i Halla an Línéadaigh an saothar stiúideo chomh maith le próiséas cúl-táirgthe saothair na n-ealaíontóirí. Déanfar ealaín bheo shuiteála, nó stiúideonna ealaíontóirí go bunúsach, den dánlann i rith mhí an taispeántais agus beidh deis ag baill den lucht féachana i rith na míosa faire ar na healaíontóirí agus casadh leo i mbun oibre ann.

IAN WIECZOREK

LOCATION:

The passageway linking to the Foyer of the Linenhall Arts Centre from Linenhall Street.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

The video/audio installation Everything That Rises Must Converge presents what appears to be a disembodied regenerating flame, but is in fact footage of a torrent of water. The imagery transcends its physical source and becomes its opposite: water is transformed into fire by way of trompe l'oeil alchemy, evoking connotations of spontaneous generation, nuclear fusion, even the Biblical burning bush, and acknowledging Marco Costa's proposal that new technologies are creating conditions for a new kind of expression of the Sublime. The title Everything That Rises Must Converge is by way of French philosopher and Jesuit priest Pierre Teilhard de Chardin and his concept that everything in the universe is in a state of evolution towards a maximum level of consciousness.

As an evocation of dynamic energy, the work's location acknowledges and reinforces the status of the Linenhall Arts Centre as a focus for creative/artistic energy and endeavour in the town. The passageway off the main thoroughfare of Linenhall Street adds a dramatic spatial element to the work both visually and aurally, and also a transformed experience of a generally perceived 'dead area' for the passer-by. A sound element is also incorporated into the artwork. The work will be experienced from the street every evening from 6pm to 11pm daily.

Tarraingt Téide beo ar an Meal 29 Márta.
An Chartlann: Ag Halla an Línéadaigh mí Aibreáin.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

Active from 1942-1981 Western Hats Ltd. was a significant economic presence and major employer in Castlebar for four decades. Amanda Rice has been working closely with the former employees of Western Hats in compiling a body of research on this prominent local company. As part of FIND she focuses on a fascinating discovery of a photograph of the factory's all-ladies tug-of-war team which relates to a one-off event that took place in Castlebar in 1958. Through contemporary accounts gathered from participants and eyewitnesses, Rice will re-stage the event with the aid of the relatives from the original team on The Mall in Castlebar - the original site of the 1958 event.

By comparing varied and conflicting versions of the event, disparities and distortions associated with re-constructive memory are revealed. Thus the re-staged tug-of-war is not so much a literal re-enactment as a fictitious account that reflects the subjectivity of recollected history. It seeks to act as celebratory event chronicling a forgotten and seemingly arbitrary trace of a major contributor to Castlebar's industrial and social history.

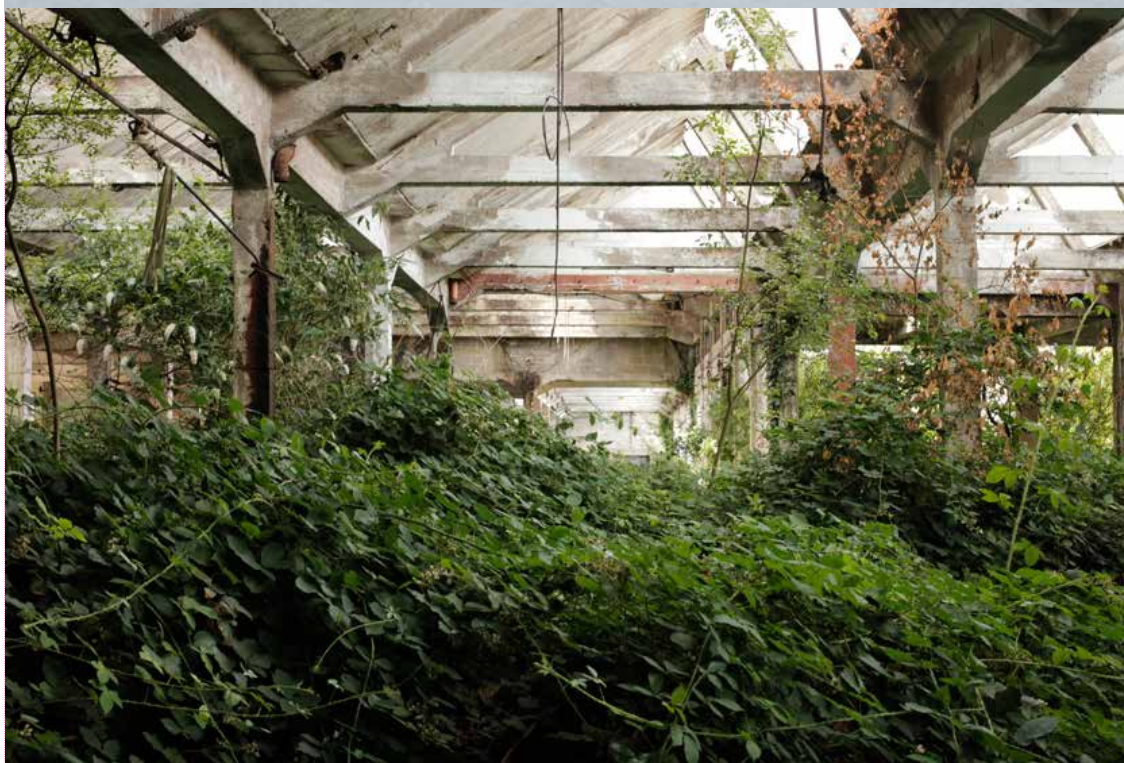
The artist acknowledges with warmest thanks local historians Ernie and Susanna Sweeney, all of the former employees and relatives of Western Hats, St. Josephs Secondary School Transition Years and the Connaught Tug-of-War Clubs for their generous assistance in the realisation of this project.

FORAMHARC AN TIONSCADAIL:

B'údar suntasach geilleagair agus b'fhostóir mór i gCaisleán an Bharraigh é Western Hats Ltd. ar feadh daichead bliain (1942-1981). Bhí Amanda Rice ag obair go dlúth le hiarfhostaithe de chuid Western Hats chun meall taighde a thiomsú faoin gcomhlacht suntasach áitiúil seo. Díríonn sí ar son FIND ar fhionnachtain iontach, grianghraf d'fhoireann tarraingthe téide ban, a bhain le himeacht aon uaire a reáchtáladh i gCaisleán an Bharraigh i 1958. Trí chuntais chomhaimseartha a bailíodh ó rannpháirtithe agus ó fhinnéithe, athreáchtálfaidh Rice an t-imeacht le cuidiú ó ghaolta na foirne bunaithe ar an Meal i gCaisleán an Bharraigh – bunsuíomh an teagmhais i 1958.

Tugtar chun léargais difríochtaí agus saobhadh na cuimhne ath-inchiallaithe trí chodarsnaí agus ilghnéitheacht cuntais an imeachta a chur i gcomórtas. Ní athchruthú fíor dá bhrí sin a bheas san atarraingt téide chomh mór is a bheas ina cuntas mar dhea a léireoidh suibiachtúlacht na staire ar athchuimhne. Beidh sé ag iarraidh bheith ina imeacht comórtha a dhéanfas trácht ar rian treallach, ba dhóigh leat, rannpháirtí mór i stair shóisialta agus tionsclaíochta Chaisleán an Bharraigh.

Admhaíonn an t-ealaíontóir go bhfuil sí faoi chomaoin mhór ag lucht staire áitiúil Ernie agus Susanna Sweeney, gach iarfhostaí is a ngaolta as Western Hats, lucht Idirbhliana Mheánscoil Naomh Iosaef agus ag Cumainn Tarraingthe Téide Chonnacht as a gcuidiú flaithiúil leis an tionscadal seo a chur i gcrích.



CHRIS LEACH

LOCATION:

Various.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

Chris's art practice over the last few years has consistently been about dialogues of scale and perspective. An aspect of recent work has been concerned with highly detailed miniature drawings of cityscapes around the world.
One of the main concerns in the work is how our psychological understanding of the world is formulated by not only direct experience but a sense of space and scale, our ability to navigate the world, the physical parameters of our own personal journeys.
For the FIND project Chris has engaged with a number or businesses and organisations around the centre of Castlebar. He interviewed individuals in each location to find out about the journeys that they have undertaken around the world. He is interested in how those physical relations overlap and build connections both for the individual concerned and in their understanding of how the world is constructed and how those connections relate to the local social structure. Miniature drawings of each location have been produced. As the work is very small scale, the works are installed discreetly within a particular environment so that although not immediately apparent they require a degree of investigation to find them. For the accompanying exhibition at the Linenhall Arts Centre, he will be displaying the background and research information regarding each of the drawings. This work would seek to outline for the audience the wider conceptual basis of the work and would also include transcripts of interviews with each participant outlining the reasons for choosing their particular locations, along with images and accompanying documentation. This work would form an integral part of the 'complete' artwork, allowing me to highlight aspects and information that although perhaps inferred in the drawings would clarify and expand on the research information gathered from the project. He will be exhibiting again at Claremorris Gallery this year in a joint show with Brian Fay, and will be represented at the Hong Kong Affordable Art Fair.

Ba é idirghabháil an toise agus na dearcasachta phríomhchleachtas Chris i dtólamh sna blianta deireanacha seo. Bhain gné amháin dá shaothar ar na mallaibh le mionlíníochtaí iontach mionsonraithe de dhreacha cathracha mórthimpeall an domhain. Ar cheann de chroíspéiseanna an tsaothair is ea an dóigh nach trí thaithí dhíreach amháin a mhúnlaímid ár dtuiscint aigneolaíochta ar an saol, ach go múnlaítear sinn trí mhothú spáis is tomhais, trínár gcumas stiúrtha sa saol 7 trí thoisí ár n-aistear pearsanta saoil.

Don tionscadal FIND, chuaigh Chris i dteagmháil le roinnt gnólachtaí agus eagraíochtaí thart ar lár Chaisleán an Bharraigh. Chuir sé agallamh ar dhaoine ag gach láthair le fáil amach faoi na haistir a dtug siad fúthu timpeall an domhain. Is spéis leis an dóigh a fhorluíonn na gaoil sin ar a chéile agus an dóigh a thógann siad naisc don duine áirithe mar aon lena dtuiscint ar dhéanamh an domhain agus ar an dóigh a mbaineann na naisc sin le déanamh phobal na háite. Rinneadh miontarraingtí de gach suíomh. Tharla gur saothar miontoisí atá i gceist, suitear ar mhodh rúndiamhair iad in ionaid áirithe sa dóigh nach léir caol díreach iad ach go nglacfaidh sé roinnt saibhseála le hiad a aimsiú. Don taispeántas a ghabhann leis in Ionad Ealaíon Halla an Línéadaigh, beidh léiriú ar chúlra agus ar an eolas taighde a bhain le chaon cheann de na tarraingtí. Ba mhian leis an léiriú seo éirim bhunús an tsaothair a achoimriú don lucht féachana agus chuimseodh sé freisin tras-scríbhinní d'agallaimh le gach rannpháirtí ag míniú cén fáth ar roghnaigh sé/sí na hionaid ar leith, chomh maith leis na híomhánna agus cáipéisí a bhain leo. Ba dhlúthchuid an léiriú seo den saothar 'iomlán' ealaíne, léiriú a ligfeadh dó gnéithe agus eolas a thabhairt chun suntais, nithe b'fhéidir nach dtabharfaí ach leid fúthu sna tarraingtí, shoiléireoidís agus chuirfidís leis an eolas taighde a bailíodh ón tionscadal.

Flag poles along Castle Street.

FIND PROJECT OVERVIEW:

Woven Found, an installation of linen flags flying over Castlebar's Castle Street, celebrates the boom times of the linen industry. Unfolding local history through the interwoven play of image and word, the flags offer non-linear insight into the processes and vivid idioms of the linen world. Each flag reveals a story of the production of linen and its larger significances to the human experience. The installation explores the many ways in which a mundane industry reflects a specialness of place with a profound mystery all its own.

Limited edition booklets related to this project will be available at the Linenhall gallery.

ALICE DIXON & ANTHONY CHAMPA (EXTERUS)

LOCATION:

Ellison Street.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

"between the raindrops" from Exterus is a light based installation that plays with the façade of an unoccupied building inviting the public to interact in an accessible format. As the piece is subtle and not strikingly obvious as a work of art it invokes the natural curiosity inside each person to look closer and perhaps play with the work.
Empty buildings in the cities and towns have become commonplace, these buildings are seen as dysfunctional and lost architecture and as we begin to stop noticing them they become invisible. By bringing life into these empty buildings on a temporary basis it changes the urban landscape and can have a lasting effect on the people who engage with it.
Using light was the perfect solution to reactivating empty and disused space due to its association with warmth and habitation. The act of passers-by triggering and essentially becoming part of the piece unknowingly, literally lighting up the building, adds a perfect element of surprise and is an interesting document of how many people are aware of their surroundings and the space they move through routinely. The piece will be visible in the evening from twilight.

Insuiteán solasbhunaithe a imríonn ar éadan foirgnimh fholaimh atá in "between the raindrops" le Exterus. Iarrann sé ar an bpobal idirghníomhú i bhformáid inrochtana.
Tharla gur mín an saothar agus nach suntasach soiléir mar shaothar ealaíne é, dúisíonn sé fiosracht aiceanta in achan duine é a ghrinniú agus b'fhéidir, imirt leis an saothar.
Is coitianta foirgnimh folmha sna cathracha is sna bailte móra. Meastar iad a bheith mífheidhmiúil agus mar ailtireacht chaillte agus de réir mar a chaillimid spéis iontu éiríonn siad dofheicthe. Trí bheocht a thabhairt isteach sna foirgnimh seo ar bonn sealadach, aithrítear dreach na cathrach agus is féidir tionchar buan a imirt ar na daoine a théann i ngleic leis.
Ba é an imirt solais an réiteach ab fhearr d'athbheochain spáis fholaimh i ngeall ar an mbaint a bhí aige le teas agus le cónaí. Cuireann gluaiseacht daoine thar bráid go gleoite le gné an iontais óir is iad i ndáiríre mar chuid den saothar, i ngan fhios dóibh féin, a splancann an foirgneamh faoi laom solais, agus is taifead spéisiúil an líon daoine a bhraitheann an t-imshaol agus an áit a ngluaiseann siad tríd go rialta.
Beidh an saothar feiceálach ó chlapsholas gach tráthnóna.

JOANNA HOPKINS

LOCATION:

Front Window, Patrick Fahys' Giftware, Main St. Archive - Castlebar Cinema archive for the month of April at the Linenhall.

PROJECT OVERVIEW:

Hopkins has carried out a thorough research project gathering information from the public, including interviews, images and newspaper articles referencing one of Castlebar's first Silent Cinemas, the Star Picture Palace. Located on Main St. from 1919 to 1923, it was situated behind what is now Patrick Fahy's Gift and Hardware Shop.
The silent cinemas in the 1920's featured local musicians who played improvised music to accompany the screenings of the films. Hopkins will utilise the still existing space to create a piece of film work that pays homage to a local Pianist, Grace Delayney, who played in the cinema. A specially commissioned piece of original music by Grace's great grand daughter will be performed, referencing the 1918 Irish film 'Knocknagow', the first film that was screened in the Star Cinema.
This revised and playful merging of silent films and music intends to pay tribute to the local musicians who played here and to uncover the hidden cinematic history of this building. The film work will be revealed through a specially adapted 'invisible' screen, which the audience must seek out in order to view the work.
Hopkins will use the Gallery Space at the Linenhall for the month of April as an open studio to further research the history of cinemas and film in Castlebar, and invites the public to contribute with stories, images and articles.
With warmest thanks to Mary Fahy and family, and Dee Gavin and family for their generous time and contribution to this project.

FORAMHARC AN TIONSCADAIL:

Chuir Hopkins tionscadal taighde ceart críochnaithe i gcrích ag tiomsú eolais ó na daoine, a chuimsigh agallaimh, íomhánna agus gearrthóga nuachtáin a thagair do cheann de chéad Bhalbhphictiúrlanna Chaisleán an Bharraigh, an Star Picture Palace. Ar an bPríomhshráid a bhí sé idir na blianta 1919 agus 1923. Bhí sé taobh thiar den áit a bhfuil Patrick Fahy's Gift and Hardware Shop anois.
Chasadh ceoltóirí na háite a bhí go mór faoi thrácht foinn tobchumtha mar thionlacan le léiriú na scannán i bpictiúrlanna balbha na 1920í. Bainfidh Hopkins feidhm as an spás atá ann fós le mír de shaothar scannáin a chomórann Grace Delaney, an Pianadóir áitiúil a chasadh sa phictiúrlann. Seinnfear ann saothar nua ceoil a coimisiúnaíodh go huathúil le gar-gar-iníon Grace is a thagraíonn do 'Knocknagow', scannán Éireannach ón mbliain 1918, an chéad scannán a léiríodh sa Star Cinema.
Is mian leis an gcumascadh athchóirithe spraiúil seo de bhalbhscannáin is de cheol mór a dhéanamh de cheoltóirí na háite a chasadh anseo agus stair cheilte phictiúrlannaíochta an fhoirgnimh seo a nochtadh. Léireofar an saothar scannáin ach le féachaint air, caithfidh an lucht féachana an scáileán sainoiriúnaithe 'dofheicthe' a aimsiú.
Bainfidh Hopkins feidhm as Slí Dánlainne Halla an Línéadaigh i mí Aibreáin mar stiúideo oscailte le stair na bpictiurlann is an scannáin i gCaisleán an Bharraigh a iniúchadh tuilleadh. Tugann sí cuireadh do chách cuidiú le scéalta, íomhánna is le hailt.
Buíochas ó chroí le Mary Fahy is a teaghlach, agus le Dee Gavin is a teaghlach as a gcuidiú agus as a gcuid ama a roinnt go fial leis an tionscadal seo.

"HOW SHALL YOU KNOW"? CONSULT YOUR EYE!

Emily Dickinson

Castlebar is a well established town with a long recorded history. But some of that history has fallen out of memory. Time has the unusual ability to erode certainty. Things that were definite, that were permanent; stone structures, heaving behemoths of industry, spaces of social exchange, artistic production and dissemination can be dissolved and erased as if they never existed. For memory is a moveable feast. But for an artist, memory is always a rich and fertile ground, an ever-changing multi layered landscape. Our hidden, our ignored, our overlooked once reimagined can uncover gems of knowledge and emotional archeology. In the Looking we have the Finding. All the artists participating in this project have undertaken a journey of excavation, jumped into the cracks of time and come out with a memory-map of unusual complexity. Some of them re-enact or re-stage memory. Some re-awaken space memory. Some play with word memory, some bathe us in colour memory or stir up sound memory. Not only have the artefacts of past peoples, past communities, past rituals, past industries been exposed to our contemporary lens but so too have the banal and the redundant been reborn and re-imagined. By their sensitive investigations and their research but most of all by their each adding their own individual visions, the artists of FIND have really reawakened the memory of a town and illuminated the shadows of its history. Their forays into the hidden and the overlooked have born much fruit, not just for these venturers but indeed for the people and community of Castlebar, for truth and beauty, past and present certainties, are waiting to be questioned and uncovered. All you have to do is FIND them.

Is baile téagartha é Caisleán an Bharraigh a bhfuil a stair fhada breactha síos. Tá cuid den stair sin imithe as cuimhne na ndaoine áfach. Más ait féin é, thig leis an am an chinnteacht a leá. An méid a bhí buan, cinnte, na déanmhais chloiche, na hollfhathaigh mhóra tionscail, na hionaid chaidriúla, táirgthe ealaíne agus na hionaid eisiúna, is féidir iad a leá is a chur ar ceal amhail is nárbh ann dóibh riamh. Óir is béile ar bogadh an chuimhne. Don ealaíontóir áfach, ithir mhéith thorthúil is ea an chuimhne i dtólamh; tírdhreach ilchisil ilathraitheach. A bhfuil ceilte againn, ar neamhaird againn, scaoilte tharainn, ach é a athshamhlú, thig leis cnó Seaghsa agus mothúcháin aois na chloiche a nochtadh. Sa Lorg atá an Éadáil againn. ALICE DIXON & ANTHONY CHAMPA (EXTERUS)

Exterus is a collaboration between the visual artists Alice Dixon (ROI) and Anthony Champa (US). We create pieces in response to the belief that what is often seen as the initial dynamism of public artworks often quickly becomes lost or these pieces fade into the surrounding scenery solely through their existence as static objects. We have seen that after a period of time one becomes acclimated to almost anything new no matter how large, gestural, or site specific, therefore all of our projects are created to act in response to or interaction with the public changing over time or existing solely as temporary interventions.

JOANNA HOPKINS

Joanna Hopkins works predominantly in video, photography and installation, with a focus on interactive works. She has exhibited widely across Ireland and Northern Ireland, and was the first recipient of the recent Visual Artists Ireland and Digital Art Studios Belfast Residency Award. She was a recipient of the 2013 Mayo Arts Office Tyrone Guthrie Bursary. Recent solo exhibitions include 'Polarise' at Catalyst Arts Belfast, June 2013. Recent group exhibitions include 'Illusion' at Science Gallery Trinity College Dublin, 2013 and the CATA Project at EVÁ International 2012. Upcoming exhibitions for 2014 include The Science Centre San Diego and Discovery Place in North Carolina, USA.

Léirigh an bheirt acu "Fair Shouldered One" (leabhar nach leabhar é) ag an bhFéile & Now Literary i bPáras, 2012 agus chrochadar "Between Spaces", tír taibhrimh a spreag Yeats iontu, ag Dánlann Hamilton, Sligeach, 2013.
Sheas Dánlann Boltax i Nua-Eabhrac le saothar Clarke ó 2005 i leith. Ar na foilseacháin deireanacha tá "Yeastian: Numberless Dreamers", The Encyclopedia Project, 2014, "Here", Lost Magazine, agus "Idiom: Woodbird Flies Early", The Encyclopedia Project. ALICE DIXON & ANTHONY CHAMPA (EXTERUS)

Comhar na n-ealaíontóirí físe Alice Dixon (Éire) agus Anthony Champa (SAM) atá in Exterus. Cruthaímid saothair de thoradh na tuairime go gcailltear fuinneamh tosaigh saothair ealaíne poiblí go tapa go minic, nó leánn na saothair seo isteach sa timpeall ina suitear iad ar an mbonn amháin de dheasca iad a bheith sa saol mar nithe gan chorraí. Tá feicthe againn go n-éiríonn an duine róchleachta le nach mór aon ní nua, ar neamhchead do mhéid, gotha, nó do shuíomhoiriúint. Cruthaítear ár gcuid tionscadal ar fad dá bhrí sin d'fhonn gníomhú mar fhreagra nó mar idirghníomh leis an bpobal i rith an ama, sin, nó mar idirghníomhaíocht shealadach.

JOANNA HOPKINS

Oibríonn Joanna Hopkins le físeán, grianghrafadóireacht is le healaín suiteála go príomha, ag díriú ar shaothar idirghníomhach.
